SOUTHWELL'S, A HOUSTON TRADITION

It all started in the late 1960's. That's when Robert Southwell moved his family, including his son Brian, to Houston from Indiana to manage country clubs and oversee the food and beverages.

Over time, Brian grew interested in the hospitality industry. He decided to pursue his degree at The University of Houston's Conrad N. Hilton College of Hotel and Restaurant Management. And with a degree in hand, it was time for him to set out on his own.

Brian knew one thing for certain: he wanted to give customers a welcoming and satisfying dining experience. He opened his first burger joint in 1986 - Southwell's on Richmond west of Fondren.

Brian worked the front counter and became known for treating his patrons like family. The original location eventually became successful enough that he could open a second one in 1991. He sold his original Richmond Avenue location later that same year. Southwell's on San Felipe was born, and it has remained a beloved eatery ever since, serving the local community day in and day out for the past 27 years.

Though he was working as a virtual one-man show, Brian was able to open up yet another location in 1996 on I-10 and Campbell. Since customers could always walk through the door of a Southwell's and be greeted with a smile, the restaurant became known as the place where families, friends, local sports teams and community groups could hang out. Ten years after opening the doors at I-10 and Campbell, Brian decided he would move the location across I-10 to Gaylord Street next to Memorial High School, where his current location remains today.

Brian expanded his base in 2002 by opening another location in the Medical Center on West Holcombe.

With his continued success, Brian reached out to a not yet ventured side of town in 2010 with his Taylor Street location, bringing with him the Southwell's tradition of fresh food and quality service to the families in The Heights and surrounding areas.

Southwell's wants to thank you for your business, and assure you of our commitment to using only the finest in local produce and meats. We look forward to serving you and the Houston community for decades to come - and doing it with Houston pride.
